Appendix A: Lyrics

In outer space to the final frontier
In Higgs Ocean, I drink my milk beer
My real name is Darwin's Cat
And my implants make me... so smart

Travel is long, but I'm still strong
My favorite guru was Darwin's Bulldog
I've never believed in Gods and Fairies
And no Cat knows them... on Antares

My lovely space vessel was born in Space
My home was Earth, but my life here in race
I'm looking for a new civilization of Cats
And ship keeps in safe my brain... and my guts

I'm trying boldly go
Where no Cat has gone before

Appendix B: Epigraphs

The known is finite, the unknown infinite; intellectually we stand on an islet in the midst of an illimitable ocean of inexplicability. Our business in every generation is to reclaim a little more land.

— Thomas Huxley — British naturalist and biologist (Darwin's Bulldog), On the Reception of the 'Origin of Species'
