Appendix A: Lyrics

Hey, my human, come to me,
Bring me my "milk beer" and bring me "milk tea"
Do it quickly while I'm not awake,
I'm a Cyber Cat, and I can't wait

Pet my back and scratch my ear,
It's your duty, and that's why you're here
Check out my paws, aren't they cute?
Scratch my nice belly or you will be executed

Morning too short, time to go to work
I have my own duty and I see it as great perk
I need to take a nap to coordinate my fleet,
Bring me my gadget and bring me fresh milk

Pet my back and scratch my ear,
It's your duty, and that's why you're here
Check out my paws, aren't they cute?
Scratch my nice belly or you will be executed

My nap is done, my fleet is fine, my command bridge shines,
It's a work of my brain, I need a little training, why are you frozen and waving?
I'm starting to hunt for relievers,
I'm starting to hunt for all believers, yeah

Relievers were caught, believers not yet, time to go to bed
Bring me "Whiskas-Cola" and charge my gadget
Scratch my nice cool belly and scratch my nice back
And do not disturb me until I'm awake

Pet my back and scratch my ear,
It's your duty, and that's why you're here
Check out my paws, aren't they cute?
Scratch my nice belly or you will be executed

Appendix B: Epigraphs

Let us try to teach generosity and altruism, because we are born selfish. Let us understand what our own selfish genes are up to, because we may then at least have the chance to upset their designs, something that no other species has ever aspired to do.

— Richard Dawkins — British ethologist and evolutionary biologist, The Selfish Gene

Authoritarian regimes thrive when people are afraid to question authority.

— Michael Shermer — Science historian and founder of Skeptic magazine,

Violence is the last refuge of the incompetent.
