Pitch

A galactic explorer's mantra, in rock form.

Description

"Cat's Mantra" is a largely instrumental rock piece for the kind of traveler whose home is the road itself. The few sung lines are a creed; the rest is the slow, unstoppable feeling of going on — because for some, there has never been another way.

Appendix A: Lyrics

We believe in reason
And the common sense
They are prerequisites
To live in the universe

We're looking for new knowledge
And beings who need help
We spread our wisdom everywhere
Trying to prevent regress

Space and time unlimited
Like our thirst to know
We cross the space in the spaceships
Looking for the truth

Wonders of the strange worlds
Call us to think clear
And Leave at home stupidity,
Laziness and fear

Appendix B: Epigraphs

Heaven and earth were born with me, and the ten thousand things are one with me.

— Lao Tzu — Ancient Chinese philosopher and writer, Tao Te Ching
