Appendix A: Lyrics

Cold gaze of eternity, the Void's hidden vibes.
I've grown my starship by genes from carbon fibers.
My fuel is the Void; my engine, a piece of art.
I'm already ready to go away.

My ship takes me into deep space, to the stars,
Away from home, past the asteroid belt and Mars.
It's time to be a part of cosmic life.

Who will take this path behind me?
Who has made this path before me?
I would like to know.

I've walked through time so long, time itself began to wait,
Improved my ship, improved my self, for a better fate.
I am a tool the universe has finally designed,
To understand itself, through eager mind.

Eons, that time so long, to stay alone
But i would like to see new places in my roam
Again left the cozy places on behind

Who can trace my way in void?
Who can know why I enjoyed?
I would like to know...

Galactic cosmic rays, they are my Breezy weather,
Cosmic microwave background it is my Aether.
Cats strictly keep top secret, and now I let you know:
We are a way for the Cosmos to know itself.

Appendix B: Epigraphs

We are a way for the Cosmos to know itself.
